

supported by Sheffield Committee to Defend Asylum Seekers

South Yorkshire says

No to Deportations and Destitution

Asylum seekers in South Yorkshire are facing threats

such as:

- forcible deportation to face certain danger in Zimbabwe, Afghanistan and Iraq;

- forced into destitution because they are not allowed to work and have benefits withdrawn

- benefits being cut by £7 to £35 a week

- being forced to travel the length of the country to make a claim for asylum

Coming up to Christmas, it's time to show that the people of South Yorkshire stand in solidarity with those seeking asylum from war, persecution and torture.

Asylum seekers are human beings.

They have human rights too

DEMONSTRATION
Saturday 28th November 11am
outside the Town Hall, Sheffield

For more information contact dignitynotdetention@yahoo.co.uk

supported by Sheffield Committee to Defend Asylum Seekers

South Yorkshire says

No to Deportations and Destitution

Asylum seekers in South Yorkshire are facing threats

such as:

- forcible deportation to face certain danger in Zimbabwe, Afghanistan and Iraq;

- forced into destitution because they are not allowed to work and have benefits withdrawn

- having their benefits cut by £7 to 35 a week

- forced to travel the length of the country to make a claim for asylum

Coming up to Christmas, it's time to show that the people of South Yorkshire stand in solidarity with those seeking asylum from war, persecution and torture.

Asylum seekers are human beings.

They have human rights too

DEMONSTRATION
Saturday 28th November 11am
outside the Town Hall, Sheffield

For more information contact dignitynotdetention@yahoo.co.uk